Tutoring Experience

I have been tutoring Geography for six years, working with GCSE, IGCSE, and IB students across Europe. My experience includes guiding students in understanding human and physical geography concepts and preparing them for exams. I also support A-Level students in developing strong essays and case study research skills.

My time as a tutor has allowed me to work with students from diverse educational systems, helping them excel academically and gain confidence in their geographical understanding. From mastering GIS applications to interpreting complex data, I ensure students are well-prepared for both coursework and exams.
