Tutoring Experience

For the past three years, I have supported students preparing for GCSE Computer Science and A-Level ICT, focusing on practical skills like coding, digital systems, and algorithm design. My sessions cater to students from international schools and local institutions across Japan.

Additionally, I've assisted students pursuing IB Computing, helping them navigate complex topics such as database management and network protocols. My experience ensures students are well-equipped to excel in exams and apply their skills to real-world challenges.
